SUNDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1867.

INVASION OF TIERRA DEL FUEGO.

By a whale boat, just arrived from Cape Horn, we learn that the anticipations of the Nacional are unhappily confirmed, a foreign fleet having seized possession of this valuable part of the province of Buenos Aires. It is however consoling to learn that the invaders have triumphed merely by brute force, and a great moral victory, such as that of Cepeda, has been gained by an aged gentleman with untied feathers on his head and a copy of the Tribune in his hand, who protested against the aggression. The war vessels closely resemble Chinese Junks, and it is believed that the illustrious Whang-a-fum, Brother of the sun and Moon, has annexed Tierra del Fuego to the Celestial Empire.

As yet we do not know what measures Pres. Mitre purposes taking, to repel these enemies of republican liberty; it is said that he regrets not having accepted the proffered American League Plan. A Peruvian minister. A mail-steamer is in circulation that the Emperor of China sent this vessel in consequence of what he read in the Standard, respecting the Indios Bravos. Some people have declared our premises very convenient for the purpose of searching for treasonable documents: one of the Editors of this paper, who is an adept at discovering a Chinese Junk, he declares is a Chinese Junk, and our two premises being seized as Chinese houses, we have been obliged to give bail for our good behaviour.

That Ocean Circus is again opened, as it appears the public is an opium-eater, and a subscription of the Circus will be found in Mr. Van Ordt's ledger. Neither does Mr. Jordan escape suspicion, since his removal of Martin Garcia and abolition of our southern ports of Bahia Blanca and Patagones would indicate a wish to leave our coasts unprotected, in exchange for the dignity of Mandarin of Yang-si-Kiang, or some other geographical distinction such as the adoption of his Cosmos in all the Celestial Universities. Messrs Fumini and Fajardo have been arrested for murder in the Insurgente element, which might have successfully opposed the invaders.

Meantime the king of Araucania has concluded an alliance with Pres. Berro, and despatched an envoy from Montevideo offering on the part of his subjects to end up all the Chilenos on condition of being restored to his throne. It is believed that Mitre will not suffer Orelie Antoine to suffer the fate of Francis II and Otho, and the preliminaries of a compact have been agreed on, at the election of Dr. Foster, dated in this city of Buenos Aires on the festival of Holy Innocents.

THE FINANCE MINISTER AND SALADERISTOS.

The universal prostration of the Saladero business in this Province is a matter worthy of the immediate attention of Government.—We are told that a law is law, and that the Minister of Finance is powerless to suspend its operations, that our strictures on him were uncalled for and unmerited, as no blame can be attached to him for carrying out the law, but fortunately for these things to deal with. If our assertion respecting the enormity of the taxes levied upon the unfortunate saladeros and their produce can be controverted or denied in BUENOS Ayres, we can prove to us that he has made any efforts to resuscitate this expiring industry, we will withdraw our charges against him as a public officer.—A Minister of Hacienda, as we people would mask us believe, is nothing more nor less than a sort of tax collector pot Magor, whose sole duty is to see that the revenue is collected. It may be that in Buenos Ayres, such is the extent of the Minister's jurisdiction. It may be that, had Sr. Dominguez presented to the Gov. an expression of the sad state of the saladero business and the policy of assisting it so far as possible, that he would be guilty of high treason and render himself amenable to the Police. It may be that fine and imprisonment stared him in the face if he dared to raise his voice on behalf of the saladeros, but that if such is the case we may at least plead ignorance of the fact. We had thought that the Minister of Hacienda was the officer appointed by law to protect and foster the industry of the country, to suppress and annihilate monopoly, we had thought that every Minister of Hacienda should be as intimate with the actual state of one of our staple trades as the operators themselves—But we find that we have to learn much that we know passed must be entered, even though it suck the life blood, and ruin irreparably the commerce of the country: that the Finance Minister in this country has higher and other occupations than statistics or export and import erudition—If we feel bound to deal severely with the Minister on the present occasion it is because we deprecate the system which Pres. Mitre follows. The Finance Minister is responsible to us (as the organ of industry and progress) that so important a branch of industry has fallen into decay? From whom are we to demand relief, protection, & c.? Are we to go unpressed to the trade? not from the Minister? The plain matter of fact is that if we had a Minister who knew more about jerked beef hides and bone ash, we should not have, probably, so much cause for complaint.

No man stands higher in our social circle than Sr. Dominguez. As an historian and a writer of no mean importance, we respect him, as an upright and honest man we esteem him; but as a Minister de Hacienda, we impeach him—He cannot, we admit, lower the price of cattle, or raise the price of hides, tallow, and bones, neither can he alter taxes or change the law of the land; but what he can do and he done? Has he laid before the Governor of the cabinet a statement showing the obligations of the other taxes or change the law of the land; but what he can do and he done? Has he laid before the Governor of the cabinet a statement showing the obligations of the business to the country at large?—Has he exhibited that whilst saladeros to the tune of millions of pesos are perishing and thriving in Buenos Ayres they are half-ruined and bankrupt, and explained to us the reason why? Has he, in the face of all this, demanded of the Government, as a matter of justice and common sense—protection instead of oppression? We leave the public to judge.

If we are charged with attacking the Finance Minister with severity if we are blamed for censuring the Secretary, no idle and exciting angry feelings on the subject—we answer, pointing to the idle saladeros' rusty boilers, and moss-covered corrals, here are the establishments from which the Government derives two million and a quarter dollar of taxes for the coming year; theso are the places where, with country teeming with fat cattle, industry has been forsaken and capital irretrievably lost; these are our clients on the present occasion! We take up the cause warmly, and cry out against taxation, we are but true to our motto, for we neither fear to speak the truth, nor dare to speak falsely.*

LATEST FROM CORDOVA.

PRESS PROSECUTION.

We have received files of the new Cordova paper, "La Union Argentina," which seems to be edited with spirit and talent. We are not personally acquainted with the editor, and although he enjoys a rather unpleasant notoriety—which—still we recognize in his editorial articles an anxiety for the advancement of industry, commerce and social good, we extend our hand to our Cordovan colleague, and trust that he will be more successful as an editor than his countryman is with our finances. Trial by jury in Cordova must be even more attractive to a foreigner than the Great Ocean Circus to a native. We regret that our gentle colleagues has been accused, and the motive is to be tried by jury. The offence is speaking the truth too plainly, and urging upon Governments and Governors to govern more equitably every true republican in the country.

In Cordoba, as elsewhere, there are abuses: the consuls seem to carry it all their own way, and actually emasculate the readers, the man who has the courage to accuse them is to be accused, and perhaps fined, etc.

In Buenos Aires this game has been tried, but found to fail. Here, the living by public salaries must be prepared for public criticism. Even in despotic Russia this is not denied while in republican South America it seems a crime.

Back is very badly wanted in Cordova; business is at a stand still, and the best interests of the country paralyzed for the want of such an institution. Money is frightfully scarce, and taxes we could plunge up their hand, and say cotton and other crops are unable to do so, for the want, not of labor, but of capital.

AN ACTIVE MAGISTRATE.

Nothing calls for such ample praise as the efficient discharge of duty by a public officer, and as we were for most in consequence of the non arrival of Captain Monteverde—still as we recognize in his editorial articles an anxiety for the advancement of industry, commerce and social good, we extend our hand to our Cordovan colleague, and trust that he will be more successful as an editor than his countryman is with our finances. Trial by jury in Cordova must be even more attractive to a foreigner than the Great Ocean Circus to a native. FRENCH BAZZAR.

Buenos Aires Dec. 28 1867.

Mr. Editor:

In the countries to which we both belong, criticism is in our daily habits "du chue des opinions jaillit la lumière."

It is a pity for the country where this is not understood, for contradiction and criticism are the first means of civilisation "ridendo castigat mores."

I therefore make no bad abt you will not hesitate to publish the following answer to your this days article headed as "French Bazar."

Allow me, Mr. Editor, to subscribe myself yours.

A French Gentleman.

French Bazaar—French population of Buenos Aires, by a French resident.

No doubt it is a novelty to see a foreigner to England, especially a Frenchman in heart and soul, writing in a British paper.

Why not? Was not Mr. Dillon so unfortunately killed lately as the champion of the Parisian press, was he not a native of the United States?

You will be less surprised, Mr. Editor when I tell you that no one appreciates more than I do, your performances and your country. Why so? Because I have been able to value their real worth both individually and collectively.

Such was my opinion before the existence of rail-roads and electric telegraphs which have been in the hands of pas idence. the most powerful means of dissipating the erroneous and often times absurd no ions indulged by each nation against the other. Before this occurred, how often have I not been reproached in my own country for being an "anglomane." But I was ever of opinion, that sooner or later be it as much in his favor as must triumph.

In our busy age the question is "Sauve qui peut" and thank God, as in days of yore, it is not what it was even in the beginning of the present century, when each of the two nations on earth brought to the field the most various and gain most brilliant victories, and the greatest general who ever lived Napoleon or Wellington.

Fighting there must be, let it be side by side, so as to be able to say to the world—not what the bravest, all are brave—but who are the best soldier.

But in our days, the question ought to be and really is which of the first nations of the earth progresses most in every line in commerce, industry, literature, science, fine arts &c.

On such sides, our country men can well parade claim and large share in these elements of human progress. Should not these elements be, in our hands, the means of contributing to the welfare and prosperity of these countries, according to our ideas and habits? have been for a half a century waiting for the efforts of a man not to destroy but to bring them forward.

I do consequently regret, Mr. Editor, you should merely and unjustly, my misrepresenting the French Bazaar.

You are mistaken when you assert there was nothing French about it except the French Consul and he has left the country. You add the merchants represented by English, Germans spoken was not French but rather Spanish or English. Excuse me, Mr. Editor, but you could not be more mistaken. I am about to give a complete description of the Bazaar, and the various stalls, that the French people may well be proud of the success of their countrymen and women.

I am aware that you advocate the cause of the Indians, and I perfectly approve of your doing so, but you must not forget that the Indians are not the only people in the country.

I am aware that you advocate the cause of the Indians, and I perfectly approve of your doing so, but you must not forget that the Indians are not the only people in the country.

Many beautiful articles were exhibited, such as Parisian and London fashions, Chinese, Japanese and Indian curiosities, Swiss and Tyrolese articles, Italian and Spanish articles, Belgian and Dutch articles, German articles, Russian articles, Polish articles, Hungarian articles, Turkish articles, Greek articles, Egyptian articles, Arabian articles, Persian articles, Indian articles, Chinese articles, Japanese articles, Australian articles, New Zealand articles, Tasmanian articles, Canadian articles, United States articles, Mexican articles, Peruvian articles, Chilian articles, Brazilian articles, Uruguayan articles, Paraguayan articles, Argentine articles, Bolivian articles, Ecuadorian articles, Colombian articles, Venezuelan articles, Guianese articles, Surinamese articles, Dutch Guianese articles, French Guianese articles, British Guianese articles, Portuguese articles, Spanish articles, Italian articles, Swiss articles, Tyrolese articles, Belgian articles, DROWNED—On Friday at noon the body of a drowned man was discovered close to Palermo and brought into town. It is supposed he was an Englishman although the identity has not been established.

CATAMARCA—A great disaster had taken place in the capital. The church roof fell in immediately after the performance of divine service and before the people had time to leave the Church.

Ten or twelve persons perished, chiefly ladies belonging to the principal families of the place, and about twenty were wounded.

THE IPUREY—Of the 3 Paraguay navy canoe in on Thursday with the mails instead of the Ipora.

This new steamer has been built at Asuncion in one of the dockyards.

Two officers of the Spanish squadron came on board as passengers; they had gone to Asuncion under the construction of a new helm for the ship "Triunfo."
